CO. HOSPITAL BIDS BEYOND THE REACH OF COUNTY'S POCKET BOOK LIMIT

AWARDING OF CONTRACT PUT OVER ONE WEEK BY SUPERVISORS

A MUCH MOOTED QUESTION

Board Has a Hard Problem to Solve as Too Much Hospital is Desired for the Amount of Money Left in Fund.

The best combination of figures in the bids for the county hospital, opened Monday by the board of supervisors, after a second call for proposals, shaves the total within the funds available—$92,768—but leaves nothing upon which to start for the costly equipment for the institution.

After opening the sealed proposals filed by numerous contractors the board put over action on the awarding of the contract until next week, at least, in order to hear the protest of some taxpayers who did not make their threatened appearance before the board Monday.

The George M. Easton company of Los Angeles bid the lowest on the general contract, with a figure of $91,800. The electrical contract bid of $3400 by F. C. Newberry of Los Angeles was lowest, while Howe Brothers of Los Angeles submitted the lowest figure on plumbing at $5374.

Deducting the alterations on the general contract with Easton's figures, and combining it with the electrical and plumbing bids there is evolved $91,748 as the lowest bid for the construction, coming within a thousand of what the supervisors have on hand. The supervisors believe the bids are satisfactory.

"If there is any protest, or if the taxpayers have any plan by which funds sufficient can be raised to completely equip the hospital without out fixing a levy in the ensuing tax levies, we wish to hear it, and the awarding of the contract has heretofore been deferred," said Supervisor Riley.

Following are the bids opened:

General Contract
George M. Easton, $91,800.
W. E. Kier Construction Company, $107,470.
C. M. McNutt, $103,960.
Cresmer Manufacturing Company, $101,300.
William C. Crowell, $97,720.
J. W. Davison, $113,000.
Electrical Contract
F. C. Newberry Electric Company, $3,400.
Southern California Electric Company, $4,867.
Field Electrical Company, $4,850.
Woodill & Hulise Company, $4,180.
The bids for plumbing and heating were as follows:
Arthur Hess, $8,855.
Howe Bros., $5,374.
Lowman Bros., $8,567.
Thomas Haverly Company, $14,200.
J. T. Newall, $12,554.

MAKING FORCE OF EFFICIENCY

It was right for the Dartmouth college teacher to talk frankly to the students of the university regarding the use and abuse of the word "efficiency." He said that what was in reality a good thing was in grave danger of being turned into a farce. He said that tens of thousands of dollars were being wasted in the experiment of engaging and dismissing employees on the strength of their complexions and the facial curves of their faces. That convulsed men were more gifted as executives than concave-faced men, he said, was pure nonsense. He might have added that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been wasted, even by the corporations, in testing "efficiency" methods of keeping their accounts—methods that have proved to be worthless. All of this goes to show that it is possible to overdo a good thing. It is perfectly wise and proper for a concern to look out for the most economical and effective methods of transacting its business. It is well to search for the leaks, too, for much money is lost in this way. But all of this should be done in a sane and rational way. A knowledge of human nature in the matter of employing and dismissing men, for instance, is worth more than all of the charts and rules that were ever devised by the efficiency experts.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

DECIDUOUS GROWERS WANT STATION

YUCAIPA APPLE GROWERS MAKE PROPOSITION TO SUPERVISORS

Deciduous Growers Plan for an Experimental Station Along Lines of Citrus Station at Riverside.

Deciduous fruit growers of the San Bernardino valley may have the advantage of an experiment station if the board of supervisors approves a plan to establish a plant on a five or six acre tract in Yucaipa, which has been offered for the purpose if the county will co-operate and furnish the $125 estimated as the annual expense for maintaining it.

The Yucaipa land company at the instigation of apple growers of that valley, will deed sufficient property for an experiment station that will be conducted along lines similar to the citrus experiment station at Riverside. It will be designed to fight deciduous fruit tree diseases and pests as well as experimenting with irrigation and other problems before the growers. The industry in this county consequently would be given a material boost, paying great dividends for the amount of money expended.

The county support would go toward taxes, installation of what buildings, fumes, etc., that are required. The growers perhaps would secure the services of an expert to carry on the work and bear some of the cost of maintenance themselves.

DOINGS AT CHAFFEY UNION HIGH

Chaffey Union met Riverside Polytechnic High School in two practice contests last Saturday, in preparation for the league season. About twenty boys went to Riverside by automobile, with Coach Fred H. Clapp. In the morning Riverside easily defeated the Chaffey track squad, though the local boys secured a few first places. The afternoon baseball game was a good contest, but here again Riverside managed to win out, taking the game by a 7 to 2 score.

The plunge is getting to be a more popular place daily. Those who are learning to swim are making good progress. The warm weather of last week sent large crowds of citizens to the coolness of the pond evenings and on Saturday.

There is great enthusiasm over the coming concert by the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra. Many pupils are earning their admission by selling tickets in Ontario and Upland.

Mrs. Lana M. C. Conger has been absent from school this week because of the serious illness of her father. He is gaining in strength, and it is hoped that Mrs. Conger can be at school next week.

The Chaffey grounds have never been so beautiful as now. The lawns are in beautiful condition, and the plants and shrubs that have been set out in the last two years are beginning to make a beautiful showing. Under the direction of Mr. Booth and Mr. Hawkinson, further planting as being done, and within a few years the campus will be one of the finest parks in the southland. Interest in the egg-laying contest grows as the time for its close draws near. Many of the pens have made a very creditable showing.

A naturalist club has been formed by a number of the young people who are interested in plant and animal study. Mr. Cushing is helping in the organization and planning of the work of the society.

Ray Ulrey and the boys' glee club have a very pleasing program in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Mr. Ulrey sang a couple of Irish songs, and the boys followed with a couple of numbers. An interesting feature was the ukelele accompaniment to the final number on the program. The attendance has been very fine this spring, very few absences being recorded in proportion to the registration.

VIOLET HUE LUXURY

With violet dye up three hundred per cent, on account of the war, people who wear garments of that hue will appear quite ostentatious—just the opposite of the quality attributed to the blossom from which the color takes its name.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

ANNETTE KELLER-MANN AT COLONIAL

THE PERFECT WOMAN TO APPEAR IN "NEPTUNE'S DAUGHTER"

Special Matinee and Orchestra To Be Features. Wonderful Swimming and Diving Feats Portrayed in Film.

No, ladies! There's not to be another "perfect woman" contest! But the real "Perfect Woman" is coming back to Upland, for two days this time.

All of which means that Annette Kellerman, "The Human Form Divine," is going to appear in Upland again on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, March 29 and 30, in the wonderful marine spectacle that was so greatly enjoyed here last May, "Neptune's Daughter," at the Colonial, of course.

Few, if any, pictures shown here have so captivated and entertained all who have seen them, as did "Neptune's Daughter" on the occasion of its previous showing. According to Mr. Whitmoyer of the Colonial, requests for a return date have never stopped coming in to him—both from those who had seen it and those who were not so fortunate.

The story of the play is designed especially to show Miss Kellerman's wonderful swimming and diving feats, as well as her remarkable beauty and symmetry of figure. In it she does all of the "stunts" that have made for her such reputation. But she does not stop with that, but goes on to disclose many capabilities that she has never been credited with possessing. For instance, she shows herself to be a swordswoman of no mean ability—fighting a duel that is decidedly realistic and thrilling. She also dances in a manner that shows that she is not entirely dependent upon swimming for a livelihood, and her acting is of a very high order of excellence.

Even without Miss Kellerman's charms and abilities, however, the production would be indeed a notable one, both for its dramatic strength and its spectacular qualities. One thousand people are said to have been taken to Bermuda for its production. Many remarkable marine photos and clever trick photography add much to its entertainment.

A special matinee showing is to be given Thursday afternoon at 3.15. Each evening show will begin at 8 o'clock.

Reserved seats are now on sale at the Upland Pharmacy and the Colonial.

The same splendid orchestra that has been so much enjoyed at several big productions of late at the Colonial, under direction of Fred Wilding, will play a musical accompaniment specially arranged for the play.

MEDALS DISPLAYED AT COUNTY SEAT

The medals for the winners of places in the Citrus Belt league track meet are now on display at Manson's jewelry store, San Bernardino, and have been admired by hundreds.

There are three medals for each event, as the winner gets a gold medal, second a silver, and third receives a bronze medal, all of which have the same design. They are attached to a small ribbon, which gives them a very gaudy appearance and looks as conspicuous as a captured German medal on the breast of an English Johnny.

It has always been the custom among the schools to give the fine prizes for the winners and this item alone makes a handsome expense account. This year San Bernardino is flaring on entertaining the great crowd ever attending an athletic meet in this city.

Redlands is also of the same mood when it comes to winning the meet. The friends from the red god have sent in an order for 600 seats which will be reserved expressly for the Redlands delegation, which is due to attend the meet. Pomona is also a strong booster and a like order is daily expected from the Pomona students.

Not only are outsiders great boosters for the citrus belt meet, but the chamber of commerce has reserved 100 seats in a block to be used as a representation of the chamber of commerce of San Bernardino. The movement for the business houses to

TIME WILL SOON BE HERE FOR GENERAL CLEANUP TO MARSHAL BIG ARMY

WITH ADVENT OF SPRING CITIZENS CONSIDER A SPOTLESS TOWN

WHY NOT KEEP CLEANED UP

Dirt, Tin Cans, and Debris of Every Description Should be Carted From the City Before the Summer Season.

Few movements started in the United States have been so readily taken up as the Clean Up and Paint Up idea. A great deal of credit is due to the originators of this movement, for it is a good work and worthy of the support of every man, woman and child in the country.

There is only one poor feature in regard to the movement, and that is there are too many people who have not sufficient pride to keep up their property all the year, but wait for clean up time to do a year's cleaning and painting, the same as some people wait for "Go to church Sunday," never thinking that they could "clean up" or "go to church" at any other time than that designated by the promoters of civic improvements.

Although the Clean Up and Paint Up idea is still in its infancy, the movement has developed at a great rate during the past four years. Yet there are still many communities that would profit by joining in this good work. Ours is one of them.

Occasionally one meets a man who says: "I don't care whether the yard is clean or the sheds painted. I have to live here and it suits me." Such a man is wrong. It is not only an obligation that he owes his city, but it is an opportunity for him to show his good citizenship as well. Why not declare war upon all of the unsightly things and use soap and paint as ammunition?

Importance of Cleanliness
The American people as a whole are lovers of beauty, whether natural or artificial. The attractiveness of homes and yards is just as important as the show places, such as parks.

To make a truly beautiful town requires the co-operation of every inhabitant, so when the Clean Up and Paint Up week arrives in our town, do not close your doors and sleep through such a campaign.

The ways and means of promoting this movement differ in every locality. However, the fundamental requisites of every campaign are similar. It requires plenty of good soap and water, and plenty of good paint. The paint is essential and in buying your paint, buy a paint that will hold its color, stick to its job and preserve your buildings.

Paint in its various forms, including varnishes, stains, enamels, etc., will not only clean and beautify, but will also preserve whatever it covers. The first thing on your property that is noticeable to the passer-by is the fence. If the fence appears slovenly, it detracts from the general appearance of the entire place. By using a little bright paint you can make it appear as good as new. But paint alone will not suffice. The weeds and high grass that always grow along the base of a fence must be controlled. When a person once sees how attractive his fence and lawn can be made with so little work, he will continue to take better care of his property. The same will apply to the sheds in the back yard. If the shed is painted and gives the appearance of being neat and clean, you will want to keep up your back yard in harmony with the sheds.

Paint Will Kill Germs
Paint is one of the most sanitary products on the market. Hospitals, hotels, schoolhouses and large buildings are ever watchful for new means of making their buildings more sanitary. That is why they all use paint or varnish. Why should you not be just as particular in your home as hospitals are?

Think of these things when "Clean Up and Paint Up" time comes. If the housewife cleans house, why shouldn't the town do the same? We will realize what quantities of rubbish will accumulate in a short length of time. Carelessness is a disease and is very contagious—the germs spread rapidly and the most careful are susceptible to it, once it gets its start.

Don't let your neighbor do it all.

PROGRAM OF CLASSICS TO BE GIVEN

ADOLPH TANDLER AND ORGANIZATION TO APPEAR HERE IN CONCERT

Plans Extensive for Big Event of the Year. Orchestra Plays Only in Pasadena and Here Outside of Los Angeles.

Although there is still more than a week before the great concert by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra at Chaffey Auditorium, the reserved seat chart has a deserted and forlorn look. The balcony has gone almost to a seat, and the center auditorium from the nearest rows clear back to the gallery is practically sold out.

For a concert by a great orchestra, however, some of the best seats are those in the rear of the room, and every seat in Chaffey auditorium commands a splendid view of the stage. Those who have delayed in purchasing tickets will do well to hesitate no longer, however, for the indications are for a capacity house, and that some may be disappointed in obtaining seats.

A large delegation will come from Claremont and Pomona by special car and many of the local people are entertaining large parties for the evening.

The program has been carefully chosen for the concert. It includes: Overture to Tannhauser, Wagner Symphonic Sketches, Chadwick

b. To a Wild Rose, MacDowell
Dance Macabre, Saint-Saens
Concerto for Flute and Orchestra, Chaminade

SUPERVISORS WANT TO ATTEND DOINGS

The board of supervisors are going to attend the Needles bridge celebration on March 25, if they can spare the time to make the trip, for they passed a resolution, as a body Monday morning, to attend the dedication if they could possibly do so.

The invitation was presented to the supervisors by Secretary Kneeder, in the name of the chamber of commerce of San Bernardino.

From reports to date, the string of autos that will leave for the trip on March 24, is going to be a long one, for reservations are being made each day by owners of autos and those who wish to attend as guests. It is proposed to visit the towns between here and Needles en route, arriving there on the morning of the dedication.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the M. E. church parlors at 10 o'clock, March 17, Mrs. Hoffman conducting the devotionals. Roll call was responded with a verse of Scripture. Reports of the various superintendents were given and accepted. Mrs. Hartley and Mrs. Hoffman were appointed as a committee to look after the poster work for our coming campaign. Adjournment for lunch, with our noon-tide prayer.

The afternoon session was called to order at 1.30. Mrs. Mehl, Mrs. Harty and Mrs. Stone favored us with special music. Unfinished business was then completed. The election of officers for the year were: President, Mrs. Mary Haddow; vice president at large, Mrs. Nellie Hoffman; secretary, Mrs. Glennie Colburn; treasurer, Mrs. Jennie Cromer.

Vice presidents for the several churches: Mennonite, Mrs. Sadie Mehl; Methodist, Mrs. Mary Post; Nazarene, Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit; Presbyterian, Mrs. Eleanor Chaffey; St. Mark's, Miss Fannie Noe. Superintendents of the departments: Anti-narcotic, Mrs. Alma Hartley; evangelistic, Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit; work among foreigners, Mrs. Lydia Cammack; flower mission, Mrs. Sarah Crane; noon flavoring and perfumes, Mrs. Nellie Hoffman; medal contest, Mrs. Pearl Jenkins; white ribbon recruits and Mothers' Meeting, Mrs. Minnie Billington; parliamentary usage, Mrs. Rose Fuller; Press, Mrs. Blanche Ames; Sunday School, Miss Lottie Hart; Union Signal, Mrs.

NEW FLAG POLE BE DEDICATED MONDAY

GRAMMAR SCHOOL PROUD OF POLE FROM WHICH OLD GLORY WILL FLOAT

Date of Dedictory Exercises Planned for Friday, Changed to Monday Morning. Those Interested in School Invited.

The new flag pole was raised last Saturday by the Ontario Power Co. On Monday morning, at 8.30, there will be brief dedication exercises if the weather is pleasant. The friends of the school are cordially invited to attend these exercises. A new flag has been purchased by the pupils of the whole school each one making a contribution of a penny or a sum not exceeding five cents.

On Wednesday afternoon the pupils of the school were given a treat by Mr. Whitmoyer. A version of the favorite fairy tale, "Rumpelstiltskin" was given in four reels at the Colonial, complimentary to the children of the Grammar School. The pictures were greatly enjoyed and the school extends a vote of thanks and appreciation to Mr. Whitmoyer for his thoughtfulness.

The program on Friday morning will be given by Miss Riley's Second Grade. They will present in pantomime Longfellow's poem, "The Birds of Killingworth" and give a number of folk-games and songs.

HOTPOINT AWARDS PRIZE IN CONTEST

That the modern housewife of today is intensely interested in utilizing the invisible power—electricity—to its fullest extent in the operation of her home, was strongly manifested in a contest just closed by the Hotpoint Electric Heating Company.

The company announced the latter part of February, that it would give absolutely free, the choice of one of its five new models of ranges, to the woman, either in Ontario or Upland, who submitted the best five hundred-word essay on "The Advantages of Electric Cooking."

There was absolutely no red tape to the offer, the contest was open to all, the only provision being that the essay must be mailed not later than March 3. In order to avoid any feeling that might exist that the families of Hotpoint employees would have a better chance to compete, the advertisement stated that the contest would not be open to any Hotpoint employee or any member of a Hotpoint employee's family.

The company felt that considerable interest would be manifested, but were agreeably surprised to find that the number of essays submitted was several times that which had been estimated.

An unique plan of judging was adopted. One of the judges read the essays, made private notations as to first, second and third choice, then passed the essays on to another of the judges who went through the same operation and passed them on to the third. Neither of the judges had any inkling of the selections made by the others, and it is conclusive proof of the quality of the winning essay, to state that the three judges operating as stated, each picked the same essay as first choice.

The unanimous vote awarded the contest to Mrs. W. W. Smith, 303 West State street, Ontario, and Mrs. Smith has been notified that on or about April 1 she will be privileged to come to the Hotpoint offices and select her choice of the five new models, listing at approximately $90, $75, $65, $55 and $40, and the range will be delivered to her home free of any charge whatever.

It was extremely interesting to note the capable manner in which some three score Ontario and Upland housewives went at this subject. It indicated conclusively the interest in cooking with electricity and showed that the housewives in this vicinity are not only abreast of, but a little in advance of the times.

TRIBUTE

It was his first voyage to Catalina, and he was leaning over the rail in an attitude of reckless abandonment.

"What are you doing?" some one jeeringly asked him.
"I am rendering to the sea, sir, the things that are the sea's, sir," he gasped as soon as he could speak.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SUNDAY IS OBSERVED IN THE CHURCHES HERE

MINISTERS OF CHURCHES DEVOTE SERVICES TO THE CAUSE

CAUSE RAPIDLY GROWING

Judge Dewhirst of San Bernardino Speaks in the Mennonite Church on "Personal Liberty" Theme.

The various churches of the city devoted Sunday evening services to temperance, it being national temperance Sunday. Rev. Wentworth of the First M. E. church gave an inspiring address commemorative of Neal Dow and his pioneer work in the temperance reform. Through his energetic efforts and mastery ability Maine was made a prohibition state in 1852. The speaker depicted clearly his attitude toward the liquor traffic, and assured us he is in for effective work to make California dry in 1916.

Rev. Stone of the Presbyterian church spoke in memory of Neal Dow, and in his able discourse he spoke of the progress temperance had made, even before the Civil war.

Judge Dewhirst, of the superior court of this county, was greeted by a large and appreciative audience at the Mennonite church. His inspiring address on personal liberty showed that our nation was founded on the principles of freedom in thought, speech, and freedom in religious things. He showed that the greatest menace to our country today comes from those who are trying to turn personal liberty into personal license. The speaker gave a number of statistics to show how much the use of intoxicants lead to crime. Of the 155 cases of conviction for crime in this county in January last, only 19 were abstainers. A large per cent of insanity cases have been caused directly or indirectly by the use of intoxicants.

At the Nazarene church, Mrs. Mary Haddow, our local president, gave the Scripture reading from Isa. fifty-fourth chapter. Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit, an experienced W. C. T. U. worker, gave a very interesting talk. Her text was, Mark 14:6: "Let her alone, why trouble ye her? She hath wrought a good work on Me." The thought throughout her discourse was the work of women, as with Jochbed, mother of Moses, endeavoring to save her child from being slaughtered. God honored her faith and works, and gave to the world a chairman of the first and only political party where God Himself laid down the planks on tables of stone, each with a penalty attached. Ruth, another woman of faith, chose to follow her mother-in-law and serve her God, live in her land and be buried there. By this choice she found a good husband, and favor with God. In after years from her descendants, the child Jesus was born. Esther, a strong, courageous character, became the wife of King Ananias. She interceded with the king in behalf of her people, overstepping the laws of the king's decree, choosing death rather than her people should suffer, so saving them from Haman. Mary, the mother of Jesus, went into the city of Judah, and entered into the house of Zachariah, and saluted Elizabeth. They praised God in the power and spirit of the Holy Ghost. These women gave to the world sons whose influence spread throughout the whole earth, and one reigns in Heaven today. So I say, "Let her alone. Why trouble ye her? She hath wrought a good work on Me."

THE FIRST STATE

The first step should be through organization in every county in the state. In San Diego and some other counties substantial progress in uniting the Republicans for the campaign has already been made. It will be hoped that members of the party elsewhere will be equally alive to the emergency. There are difficulties in the way of holding a convention, the legal machinery for such political gatherings having been adroitly removed by "reformers" who found it to their advantage to disrupt parties. But those difficulties can be overcome and thorough organization is the means of surmounting them. Organization should be effected without delay.—San Diego Union.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1916

ON THE evening of March 31st, at Chaffey Union High School Auditorium, the people of this colony are to enjoy a program to be rendered by one of the greatest musical organizations of its kind in the United States, The Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra. When it is considered that this famous orchestra is to play only in Pasadena and here, outside of Los Angeles, it is not only to our credit but an event of the year. Chaffey Union High School officials have given us many entertaining and instructive evenings, and this one of March 31st promises to be the crowning event of the winter season.

THE time for cleaning up is soon to be here, and with Dress Up Week strongly before the people, along with it should come the clean up and paint up idea. Upland has had many clean up days, and the street department is ever working toward cleaner streets, and now with the assistance of a large number of the residents of the town, clean door yards, attractive lawns and painted houses and buildings will add greatly to the general appearance of the city. With homes, business houses, and a hundred and one other things presenting a run-down-at-the-wheel appearance, we give the wrong impression to the visitor. Let us plan for a general clean up day and get just that much nearer to the condition of Spotless Town.

SPRINGTIME is the time to make the dust and dirt fly, as every good housewife knows. The annual spring cleaning has become an institution. In fact, within the past few years there has been a tendency to elaborate considerably in this direction, and while everything in the home gets its full measure of beating and sweeping and cleaning the outside of the house is getting its share of renovation. Not alone this, but the men are getting into the habit of overhauling the barns and out-houses. The ravishes of winter are being repaired, and the paint brush is being wielded vigorously.

"Clean up and paint up!" is the slogan at this time of the year. Spring is here, and everything is being made bright and clean. The blemishes on the building are being fixed so that everything will look like new.

Now, there are a great many people in your community who do not know just how to go about this cleaning up and painting up. You can help them.

A clean town is a sign of a prosperous town and a healthy one. It is a good place to live in.

MUCH of the current discussion concerning foreign relations has to do wholly with details. The larger issue and the one which concerns America as well as the balance of the world is militarism. Is the world to be ruled in the future by force or reason? That is the real issue.

Fearful individuals seem to think we are likely to rush into war to secure indemnity for the loss of a few American lives. Others think if America went into the struggle it would result in reddening both Pacific and Atlantic oceans with blood because of the severity of the contests.

There is no warrant for either of these opinions. What all Americans most earnestly desire is inauguration of a program of world development with the element of militarism eliminated. Every American citizen, whether he be of Roosevelt or Bryan type, honestly hopes we may reach a point where we can lessen the sums we are now spending for army and navy purposes. No sane thinking man can be in favor of spending millions for battleships which we could use to splendid advantage in building roads. The issue which confronts Americans does not have reference to the ends to be reached, but has to do solely with the best methods of obtaining those ends.—Council Bluffs Nonpareil.

CERTAIN very pleasant things are being said of the man who succeeds Lindley Miller Garrison in the Wilson cabinet, and they are all the more pleasant because they are based on fact. The record of Newton Diehl Baker is clear. In the various posts which he has been called upon to fill he has acquitted himself creditably. He began early, so early that he came to be known in his home city as "the boy politician." He was little more than a lad when he became private secretary to Postmaster General William L. Wilson, in 1896-97. There is no doubt that his career has been greatly influenced by early association with Tom L. Johnson, and with political idealists and municipal reformers of the Tom L. Johnson school. Because of the Johnsonian ideas inculcated in that city it would have been difficult, if not impossible, up to this time at least, for one who had not been taught at the knee of Johnson, or at the knee of one of his students, to have served Cleveland satisfactorily as mayor. Newton Diehl Baker, elected mayor for 1912-14, despite the fact that he quoted Latin in his campaign, served Cleveland so satisfactorily that it re-elected him for two years more. It goes without saying, therefore, that he believed in a 3-cent street-car fare while in the service of the municipality, and that he was, and is, a consistent follower of Henry George.

Two things long ago attached him to Woodrow Wilson. It is difficult to say which of them should come first, but for a time he was under the instruction of the present incumbent of the White House when the latter was a professor in John Hopkins University, and he has always been a Democrat with certain bends that may, with all due respect, be called Wilsonian. The Johns Hopkins professor, who in time became president of Princeton, Governor of New Jersey, and President of the United States, would have made his former pupil secretary of the interior three years ago, but Mr. Baker was then mayor of Cleveland and was held in that place by a sense of obligation and duty which Woodrow Wilson was quick to recognize and to respect. In the appointment just made, the President had added to his official family one with whom he has been on terms of friendship for a number of years, and one to whom he may confidently look for a full measure of personal as well as official loyalty.

If it does not follow necessarily from all this that he will make a successful secretary of war, neither does it follow that he will be unsuccessful. The probabilities are strongly in his favor. It is undoubtedly the wish of the great body of the people of the United States that his presence in the cabinet at this time may prove both comforting and helpful to the man upon whose shoulders, because of the peculiar exigencies of the times, there rests an extraordinary responsibility.—Monitor.

IN 1915 American automobile factories turned out 892,000 cars, valued at $761,400,000. That the people of the United States in one year should expend more than three-quarters of a billion dollars for new motor vehicles indicates the tremendous growth of a comparatively new industry.

As we stand on the street corner and watch the almost endless procession of automobiles we are prone to forget that it was only a comparatively few years ago that an engine driven vehicle was unknown. Those of us who are privileged to stand on a busy corner in the shopping district of Los Angeles are prone to believe that all the new cars turned out in 1915 were shipped directly to this city, and with difficulty recall the thrill of excitement that took possession of us a few years ago when we saw the first clumsy horseless carriage amble down Broadway.

The first automobiles manufactured for sale were turned out in the summer of 1896. This was the beginning of the great automobile industry, which in twenty years has been one of the largest in the United States. In 1896 thirteen crude and clumsy cars were manufactured. In 1916 it is estimated that a million cars will be built and that the total value of the product will aggregate more than $200,000,000.

It is probable that no invention has left a greater impress on our times or more vitally affected our habits or our affairs than has the adaptation of the gasoline engine to the propulsion of vehicles.—Los Angeles Express.

FOR months the United States has held more gold than any nation ever held before. In round numbers the value of this gold is $2,000,000,000, a sum twice as great as any other single nation holds. A short while ago a shipment of gold amounting to about $20,000,000 was received in New York from London. As one newspaper paragrapher said at the time, it left the other side quietly enough, but its arrival in the American metropolis resembled a circus coming to town.

Yesterday a Philadelphia newspaper that pays a great deal of attention to business conditions, printed a dispatch from Chicago under this head: "West Sees Business to Follow Gold Influx."

No one but an expert mathematician with considerable imagination can understand the difference between twenty millions and two billions. The one is veritably a drop in the bucket as compared with the other. Nevertheless it is altogether probable that the arrival of this comparatively small sum of British gold will have the precise effect upon business conditions that the quoted headline indicated.

Yet many American newspapers that fancy themselves as founts of wisdom undeified thought it was a huge joke when President Wilson last winter said that the business depression, which was then felt, was largely psychological. The truth is that just such subtle influences as produced that depression, and are now causing business buoyancy, are more potent in determining business conditions than is cold logic. Your typical business man likes to fancy himself as "hard headed," but all of them feel, and only here and there is there one who actually thinks in a large way.—San Bernardino Index.

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY, former head of the Pure Food Bureau of the Department of Agriculture, originator of the famous "poison squad" idea, now writing monthly for Good Housekeeping, can always be trusted to say something forceful and worth thinking about.

In the last issue of the magazine he asks: "Do we really want to live? As I mingle with my fellow men, I begin to doubt it. Our conversation is of war, commerce, society, music, clothes, athletics, congress, preparedness, taxation, occasionally of books, and once in a long while of life. That which is dearest to us we apparently think least about. Where one man is studying how to prolong life, thousands are seeking means to put a speedy end to it.

"The advisory committee to the Secretary of the Navy has suggested building a laboratory costing five million dollars and equipping and manning it, which would probably take about as much more. Its purpose is to study the best methods of killing our fellow men from other countries and preventing our own sailors and citizens from being killed. I am not inclined to protest against this action, but merely to ask, What of guarding against disease and preventing the half million of preventable deaths every year? Who will provide the five million dollars for that? Ten dollars used for prevention will save a life.

"The American Public Health Association, the medical associations, and the dental associations are studying this problem, but are exciting little public interest. People pay less attention to bad teeth in children than they do to spring styles for them. The mother puts more thought into the decorations of her dining room than she does on the balancing of the rations for her children."

In his youth, observes Dr. Wiley, ideas on the subject of diet were chaotic, many of the traditions of the effects of particular diets erroneous. Nowadays there is much reliable scientific information available. If people want to live, the thing to do is to acquire that information, make sensible use of it, and deliberately eat to live instead of living to eat—which means eating to cripple or kill themselves.

THE MAILED HAND

Ah, she was young and very fair,
Whose soul was a lily white,
'Till Life came by with its mailed hand
And struck her with cruel might;
She lost her youth, she lost her song,
And her starry eyes grew hard
(You wonder at her painted smile
As she plays her one last card)!

A stalwart lad at break of day,
Whose heart was clean as the morn,
Went to the conflict, flushed with hope,
With never a voice to warn
Of that merciless, unseen Thing
That should bend him, make him quail—
Oh, God, remember the shorn lambs

THE MEXICAN CRISIS AND ITS REVELATION

This Mexican situation ought to stop the pens and mouths of all the tiddlywink writers and pingpong orators who have been mumbling and shouting against American preparedness.

Here we are confronted by a bandit with a few thousand followers, and find that our military resources are put to their utmost endeavor to meet so warlike a situation. In the event that Carranza should get on his high horse and attempt to block the column of General Pershing it is admitted all around that we haven't an army establishment fit to cope with little Mexico.

Well, what would happen if, instead of Mexico, we were to meet hostilities from a first class power—England or Germany or Japan. General Funston has said that Japan could land and maintain 250,000 men in California before we could mobilize forces sufficient to cope with them.

Congress, in a hurry, has voted the increase of the army by a few thousand men.

The fact is, the country will be in a hysterical condition every time there is a border foray or a warlike frown from over sea, until such time as we have a general scheme of defense worked out and put into practice. We must get away from the militaristic bogey. There is no need or danger that a large army establishment shall be any more dangerous or offensive than the present small military establishment is now.

So let's not permit this Mexican lesson to pass without results. A Mexican war would be a terrible thing, and there will be no Mexican war unless it is forced upon us. But it might be a blessing in disguise if it taught us to prepare against the awful catastrophe of an attack from a fully prepared power from somewhere over seas.—Los Angeles Examiner.

STEEL EARNINGS RAISE 260 PER CENT IN 1915

The annual report of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation for 1915, disclosed that the net earnings of the corporation and its subsidiary companies, after deducting expenditures, amounted to $24,821,408, as compared with $9,649,667 in 1914, an increase of nearly 260 per cent. Orders on hand December 31, 1915, aggregated $17,432,895, as against $45,513,189, on the corresponding date of the previous year.

The average number of employees of the company in the United States had increased from 15,586 in 1914, to 22,964 in 1915, and that wages paid in 1915 amounted to $21,800,600, as against $14,312,948 the previous year.

BROTHER JONATHAN
The Outlook for February 16 contained a poem entitled "Brother Jonathan," written by Dr. Charles Alexander Richmond, president of the Union College. With it is the following editorial note:
"Dr. Richmond is well known as the president of the Union College, at Schenectady, New York. The following verses, written in the vein of James Russell Lowell's 'Bigelow Papers,' were read by Dr. Richmond with telling effect at the recent dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York City.
The poem is as follows:

I
Brother Jonathan sat by the kitchen fire,
Nursin' his foot on his knee.
"It's a terrible fight they're havin' out there,
But they can't get over to me."
And Jonathan jingled the coins in his han'
An' thanked the good God for the sea.

II
"They'll be wantin' my cattle and hogs and corn
An' powder and guns mebbe,
But they'll pay on the nail! cash down, by gum!
For all they git from me."
An' he smiled kinder slow and jingled the coins,
"It's good for business," sez 'ee.

III
"They're killin' 'em off like flies, they say,
They can't blame it onto me.
It ain't my war, yet I do feel bad
For them poor Belgians," sez 'ee.
And he took a few dollars out of his jeans
And sent it across the sea.

IV
Then he heard they'd drowned a thousand men,
And some from Amerikee.
So he said right out, "If you do that ag'in
You'll git me mad," sez 'ee.
An' he kep' on jinglin' the coins in his han'
An' thankin' God for the sea.

V
They did it ag'in and then ag'in,
"You quit that now," sez 'ee.
"I'll give you fellers a piece o' my mind
If I git rol' o' ye."
An' he winks one eye with his tongue in his cheek;
"I'm too proud to fight," sez 'ee.

VI
Then they got to plottin' and blowin' up things,
An' he sez: "You let me be,
I won't stand these furrin tricks o' yours
In this here land o' the free."
And it got old Jonathan all het up,
An' he took his foot from his knee.

VII
An' he got to thinkin' and thinkin' hard,
Worryin' how it would be,
An' wonderin' what in Sam Hill he'd do
If some pesky enemy
With all them dreadnoughts and submarines
Came a-rippin' across the sea.

VIII
An' he thought of the army he wished he had,
An' he reckoned up his navy.
"I guess I've set here long enough,
I'll have to get busy," sez 'ee.
But the last I saw he was settin' there yit
An' strokin' his long goatie.

IX
It ain't no time to be settin' round,
I kin tell ye—no sirree.
He better be gittin' up out o' that cheer
An' git outdoors and see,
An' do his chores an' fix things up
The way they oughter be.

X
He might be helpin' them cousins o' hisn
To fight for liberty,
An' he might git a few licks hisself
Jes' fer humanity.
Anyhow, I wish he'd quit jinglin' them coins
An' thankin' God fer the sea.

LOYALTY
Yesterday's San Francisco papers had a striking example of wifely loyalty. A certain well-known San Franciscan was on trial for what was euphemistically described as a "statutory" crime, and he proved that the crime in question was committed in Stockton instead of San Francisco. The court therefore dismissed the case on the ground of lack of jurisdiction, and the defendant's wife came out in an interview in which she stated that she had always been sure that her husband would be "vindicated," and she now rejoiced at his proof of his "innocence." We have seen the defendant quite frequently rejoice in this sort of vindication, but this is the first time we have seen it made a family matter.—Fresno Republican.

BLIND BABES TO HAVE HOME AT INGLEWOOD

The blind babes of California are to be given a chance!

Babies who cannot look out upon the smiling world are going to be cared for and their tottering footsteps guided along paths of beauty, made visible to their inner vision.

No provision has been made for the blind babies of this golden state—and there are hundreds who have never gazed with wide-eyed wonder at the tender face of a mother, who have never looked curiously out upon a green earth, and who never will.

Yesterday there was no institution for sightless babies here.

Today there is one—the California Home for Blind Babies at Inglewood. Thus rapidly do dreams materialize in this land of sunshine and flowers.

Pledge Money for Home
About three years ago Mrs. Charles H. Eager, of the Dickens Fellowship club, started a fund for the blind babies of Los Angeles, the idea being to provide some sort of medical attention for them and eventually to obtain assistance from the state for an institution for the care of blind children.

Before she could put her plan into execution she was ordered to the South Sea Islands and the Orient for her health, and the plan did not materialize.

However, Mrs. Eager did not give up the idea, and now it has been given new impetus by Cynthia Westover Alden, president general of the International Sunshine society, who is here for the purpose of taking a blind baby with her to New York to the institute for blind children there, of which she is the head.

At a meeting of the Sunshine society held in Venice in honor of Mrs. Alden, one of the members had found a little blind baby 22 months old, and this is the tot who will become the first member of the institution for blind babies in California.

Home is in Inglewood
Mrs. Eager in a stirring address brought tears to the eyes of all those present when she appealed for funds to start a home for the blind babies of California, and in fifteen minutes more than $200 was raised, while $100 already set aside by the Dickens Fellowship club will swell the fund to $300.

The home will be started in a modest five-room bungalow at 812 Kelso street, Inglewood, and Mrs. Katherine Linberg, a practical nurse, will have charge of the institution, which will be on the plan of a nursery and kindergarten.

Blind children of tender years will be taught to become independent through the proper utilization of their other senses. To just what extent the California institution will develop, it is difficult to imagine.

No blind babies will be rejected because of their nationality. It is the desire of the Sunshine society and of the state to find all the blind babies that are to become a part of the citizenship of the commonwealth and to give them a chance to develop their other faculties and to supply them with proper care that they may not in any way be allowed to injure their eyes while they are tiny children.

ONE-CENT BURIALS
Butte county, lying in the center of the northern half of the state, while not among the largest, is one of the oldest in California. Its population has grown rapidly in recent years and its diversified industries make its people prosperous. In the thermal belt the citrus fruits produce abundantly; the county seat is fast becoming the capital of the olive kingdom; all the cereals are profitably cultivated; deciduous fruits pay good returns and the county is rich in its timber resources. Flgs, grapes and almonds there are greatly remunerative; electrical power development has been undertaken on a vast scale; the stock industry adds to the county's wealth and as a gold producer Butte has been famous since "early days."

It is, therefore, with a sense of surprise, and such chagrin as a friend may feel, that we read this dispatch from Oroville, which is the county seat:
"Butte county accepted the bid of an undertaker today who agreed to bury the indigent dead of the county at the rate of 1 cent each."

Surely the prosperous people of Butte county can take but little satisfaction in that economy. There are times and conditions under which thrift may be carried to the point of indecency. We are reluctant to believe that Butte's living are more indigent than its pauper dead, but the acceptance of that bid would indicate a degree of indigency quite unprecedented in the annals of California.—Los Angeles Express.

PURSE SHIPPED

WITH SAVAGE TIRE

Securely wrapped in one of the last thousand tires sent out by the Savage Tire Company, is a pocketbook containing a sum of money. The pocketbook and its contents belong to Harry Easton, who works in the finishing and wrapping department at the Savage Tire Company's San Diego plant.

When Easton went to work one day last week, he had his pocketbook with him. While the amount of money it contained was comparatively small, the pocketbook itself was large and Easton found it hampered him in his work at one of the wrapping machines, so he removed the wallet and placed it on his work bench.

Just for a joke, a fellow workman placed the pocketbook in a partially wrapped casing, intending to tell Easton about it, but while this workman's attention was attracted elsewhere, another workman came along. In a moment, the tire was securely wrapped, Easton's pocketbook and all, in the black paper labelled with the usual red arrow and placed among a hundred others in the truck on which the first leg of its journey to its ultimate purchaser was made.

Before the loss of the wallet was discovered, these tires had been distributed among thousands of others in the warehouse, and Easton bid his belongings a temporary goodbye. He is confident that his loss is only temporary, as the wallet contained a number of papers bearing his name and address, and Easton is sure that everything will be eventually returned to him. He says the Savage casing, aside from the prize package feature, is such an exceptional value that whoever gets it will not "have the heart" to keep his pocketbook and that you can count on the honesty of the people in general, anyway.

The sum of money the wallet contained is not large. It is, however, important to Easton, as he has a wife and a large family to support. We unite with him in his belief that wherever the pocketbook be found, whether it be in San Francisco or New York, Vancouver or San Diego, it will be promptly returned to him.

ST. PATRICK'S GREAT DAY

Ireland reflects its own heart in honoring St. Patrick as its patron saint. For he "went about doing good," with all the impulsive generosity that is and has been typical of the Irish people in all generations. If one were asked to express in one compound word, the great influence that the Irish exert upon the world, the aptest word would be—heart melting. For into the icebergs of selfishness and cruelty, unkindness and inconsiderateness throughout the world, the men and women of Irish stock project the warm genial sympathies and melting influences of the typical Irish nature. Irish sympathy and generosity and warmth of heart constitute the earth.

St. Patrick's name stands for service. So does the name of Ireland. Its people go on into the far corners of the world and take leadership in doing useful work. Industriousness is a cardinal virtue with them. The Irish are characteristically energetic. The United States has this worthy people to thank for excellent citizenship and for men and women who are loyal to American ideals, patriotic to the core, and useful, honorable members of society.—Long Beach Press.

FIVE-TON TREE TAKES BIG TRIP

An oak tree, weighing approximately five tons, was taken from the ground at the Andorra nurseries at Chester Hill, Philadelphia, and will be replanted on the lawn of Eugene du Pont's new summer home at Centerville, Md.

The tree, a pin oak, stands forty feet above the ground and the trunk is thirteen inches thick.

In digging it up, a ball of earth eight feet thick was left clinging to the roots, and an oak platform was built about the earthen ball to shield the roots from possible damage.

A force of more than thirty nursery men, under the personal supervision of J. H. Humphreys, used derrick to load it on the five-ton auto truck which was used to convey it to Centerville.

It's a poor memory that doesn't allow a man to forget what he owes.

HENRY FORD WILL

MANUFACTURE GASOLINE

Three million automobile owners in this country will be delighted to know that Henry Ford is coming to the rescue of the gasoline problem. This assurance comes from Congressman Randall of this district, to whom Mr. Ford sent his personal representative for a conference on this important question.

Some weeks ago Mr. Randall introduced a resolution in congress proposing government manufacture of gasoline, on the theory that the crude petroleum from which it is made is a natural resource belonging to the people, and not to Rockefeller. He pointed out the fact that an expert of the government had discovered a gasoline distilling process which should cheapen the cost more than 50 per cent.

Congressman Randall soon despaired of prompt government action and appealed direct to Henry Ford for the assistance of his great organization. The response was prompt, and the research laboratories at Detroit are already engaged in experimentation. Mr. Ford declares, "The solution of the gasoline problem is an urgent matter. If one attempt fails, the quickest way to get a solution will be to commence with another one."

REASON FOR BABY WEEK

As civilization progresses the effort to reverse the great law of evolution becomes more strenuous, and the doctrine of "the survival of the fittest" is subjected to closer scrutiny with a view to its modification and amelioration.

The intelligent women of America are now demanding that as far as human science can accomplish it, there shall be no "unfit" among their progeny, and that all shall have in the beginning every opportunity to prove their fitness to survive.

This is the reason for "Baby week," as it has been called—a week of concentrated attention upon the condition, needs and proper care of the infant population of this country.—San Diego Tribune.

Society

To Entertain Orchestra Members—

On Friday evening, March 31st, the members of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra will be entertained for lunch after the concert in Chaffey Auditorium. Under the direction of the domestic science department plans are being made to give the musicians even more royal a greeting than they received last year.

For that occasion the beautiful library room had been cleared and small tables had been placed in number sufficient to accommodate the whole symphony party. Orange was the color note of the evening; it was carried out in the center pieces which were piles of tempting fruit, and in the favors beside the places, tiny photographs of the towers of Chaffey, mounted on black card with a knot of orange ribbon.

After the lunch had been served Director Adolf Tandler was presented with a box of oranges, especially chosen and beautifully packed, and the members of the orchestra were almost literally showered with the golden fruit.

The musicians have remembered with delight the entertainment of last year, and have looked forward to this year's concert in anticipation of another golden reception.

Auction Bridge Party—

One of the most delightful affairs of the season was the party given on Saint Patrick's day in the afternoon by Mrs. P. H. McQuillen and Mrs. G. T. Morris, at the home of the former on Second avenue. The rooms were beautifully decorated in shamrocks, festoons of the shamrocks hanging from corner to corner. The Saint Patrick motif was also carried out in the refreshments, the salad being green with the Irish flag proudly waving in the center and lettuce sandwiches and olives, the brick ice cream having a shamrock in the center, with a green snake of candy on the plate beside the angel food cake. Further carrying out the motif was the individual candy box of green filled with mints. Mrs. W. L. Brown and Mrs. R. F. Lemon assisted the hostess in serving.

Auction bridge was the amusement of the afternoon, about ten tables playing. Mrs. Willis Mehl carried off the honors, a beautiful bluebird lunch set of linen, edged with blue crochet and embroidered in blue birds. The consolation fell to Mrs. H. O. Blohm, a piece of cut glass.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. McQuillen and Mrs. Morris were Mrs. G. E. Adams, Mrs. Owen E. Atwood, Mrs. Glenn Atwood, Mrs. Paul Bodenhamer, Mrs. Reid B. Bordwell, Mrs. G. Aaron Brest, Mrs. Henry O. Blohm, Mrs. William L. Brown, Mrs. Charles Pierce Fuller, Mrs. William C. Cline, Mrs. George Cable, Miss Maude Gerry, Miss Eva Gerry, Mrs. Jay A. Hall, Mrs. B. N. Howarth, Miss Henry, Mrs. O. O. Kincaid, Mrs. H. G. Klusman, Mrs. J. H. Whitney Leeson, Mrs. R. F. Lemon, Mrs. P. O. Long, Mrs. Clifford P. Lamb, Mrs. Earl Maurer, Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mrs. Ernest Mehl, Mrs. Willis Mehl, Mrs. W. E. Morse, Mrs. Fred McMullen, Miss Josephine Palmer, Mrs. J. F. Sawyer, Miss Hazel St. Amand, Mrs. T. K. Vernon, Mrs. L. A. Weller, Mrs. C. H. Wimpless, Mrs. R. R. Wisely, Miss Mildred Ware.

Woman's Club—

Plans have been made to entertain the men on Friday night by the Woman's Club at the Club rooms. Aside from the men, a goodly number of guests have been invited. The committee in charge is Mrs. Bordwell and Mrs. Spicer, and a good time is promised.

Cafeteria Supper—

No matter whether they liked the idea, the men were in evidence on Friday night when the members of the "Merry Wives" Embroidery club entertained them with a cafeteria supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Francisco. Several small tables were placed in the spacious dining room and living room, decorated with lilacs, and set with the necessary silver, etc., ready for the eatables which each one procured for himself on a tray in the kitchen, after having matched shamrocks with the ladies to find partners. Escalloped chicken, and potatoes, macaroni, rolls, olives, jellies, pickles, salad, with apple pie a la mode and coffee were served by the committee in charge. After having done full justice to the good things the guests spent the evening in games. Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Brest, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Crew, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Long, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Pehl, Mr. and Mrs. Evert B. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. H. Walter Slugg, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wing of Los Angeles.

Birthday Party—

Opal Miller celebrated her ninth birthday on Thursday afternoon of last week with a party, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, given by her mother and grandmother in her honor. Over twenty little girls helped to make the occasion one long to be remembered by those attending. Games were played out on the lawn, and a group picture taken of the children. Ice cream, cake, candy and a birthday cake, of course, with nine candles on it. The cake was placed on a pedestal on the floor, the children forming a circle around it, where they ate their ice cream, each dish having a little green flag upon it. Many beautiful and useful gifts were given Miss Opal. The guests were Rohma Wisely, Edith Palls, Virginia Clark, Virginia Joughin, Vevel Bell, Eunice Packard, Beatrice Caldwell, Katherine Dickson, Katherine Masten, Ruth Monroe, Lucile Bryant, Elizabeth Myers, Elizabeth Lemon, Nadine Osborne, Lavon Kronmeyer, Eva Ramsay, Arlye Belle Wilson, Virginia Stumbaugh, Blanche Collins, Nellie Bradley, Dona Masten, Fay Francisco, Miss Ida Caldwell, Miss Edith Hitchcock, Miss Irma Thomas, Mrs. Garn.

Woman's Club—

The Upland Woman's club has just received a beautiful framed sepia of Corot's "Dance of the Nymphs," from Green's, in Los Angeles. The money received from the art exhibit was used to buy this picture, and the club is justly proud of having so lovely a Corot to adorn the walls of the club rooms.

The ladies are making every preparation to give the gentlemen and those who have assisted a genuinely good time tomorrow night at their April Fool party. There will be good music and a reader, besides refreshments, and lots of fun.

A week from tonight, Thursday evening, March 30, Mrs. Dawson will give her most interesting lecture on "Egypt," at the club rooms. This will be well worth hearing. Mrs. Dawson's lectures need no recommendation, as she is well known as most entertaining in her reminiscences of her travels in different parts of the world. Mrs. Dawson will have on exhibition many curios she collected while in Egypt. The program will commence at 7:30, with a musical by the Glee Club and the orchestra from Chaffey Union High School.

Sewing Circle Friday—

The sewing circle in connection with the Edith Cavell Chapter will meet at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Walker, 416 West G street, on the afternoon of Friday, March 24, at 2 o'clock.

WOMAN'S LOVE

It takes a hundred men to make an encampment, but it takes only the influence of one woman to make a home. I not only admire woman as the most beautiful object ever created, but I reverence her as the redeemed glory of humanity, the sanctuary of all virtues, the pledge of all perfect qualities of heart and head. It is because women are so much better than men that their faults are considered greater. The one thing in this world that is considered constant, the only peak that rises above the clouds, the window in which the light burned forever, the one star that darkness cannot quench, is woman's love. It rises to the greatest height, it sinks to the lowest depth, it forgives the most cruel injuries. A woman's love is the perfume of the heart. This is the real love that subdues the earth, the love that has wrought miracles of art, that gives us music all the way from cradle song to the grand symphony that bears the soul away on wings of fire. A love that is greater than fire, sweeter than life and stronger than death.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

TWO PUGILISTS

Different periods of history have different ways of expressing their ideas.

When John L. Sullivan, the American prize fighter, was converted, he began an attack on booze. "I've left my farm," he said, "to say to the young fellows of the United States: 'Leave liquor alone. Liquor leads to bad companions; bad companions lead to evil places; evil places lead to disease, and disease destroys the home and the nation.'"

In ancient Greece fighting was much more of an art than it is in the United States, and was apt to be done by gentlemen of an artistic temperament. So when Cleanthes, the Greek pugilist, was converted, he became head of the Stoic school of philosophy and wrote a widely quoted hymn: "Lead me, O Zeus, and thou, O destiny, whithersoever I am appointed by you to go. Grant that I may follow without shrinking."—Kansas City Star.

LOCAL NEWS

Benjamin Engle of Moonlight, Kansas, and family, are guests here and may decide to remain permanently.

Antonio Juarez, the Cucamonga man who bit his wife on the shoulder and otherwise maltreated her while in a drunken rage, was given ninety days in the county jail yesterday following his hearing before Judge W. C. Belden at Cucamonga. Cucamonga officers found Juarez armed with a high power rifle when they went to arrest him and he attempted to make trouble.

Manager Whitmoyer of the Colonial was host yesterday afternoon when he invited some 500 children of the city to witness "Rumpelstiltskin," a fairy-tale film production. The youngsters had a great time and were greatly interested in the play.

The lecture by Miss Elmina Huffman, for several years a missionary in India, at the Brethren in Christ church Sunday evening, was largely attended and proved very interesting indeed.

Dodge Brothers' motor cars speak for themselves. They are doing so here. The sturdiness, the steadiness, the unusual comfort—these are the things that count. Ask W. A. Lucas for a demonstration.—Adv.451f.

Mrs. Enoch Hunter is now the owner of a lot at the corner of C street and Third avenue, having purchased it as an investment.

A. C. Burkholder and family were at Glendora Sunday, where they attended services at the Dunkard church there.

Saturday, all day, special—March 25—90 pairs boys' Knickerbockers, worth 65c to $1.25, at 59c. Haur's.—Adv.451f.

J. B. Leaman was in Glendora Sunday, where he filled the pulpit at the Dunkard church.

Acting on information that Mexicans in the settlement at Cucamonga had been hiding guns beneath a church, and that they had been storing large quantities of ammunition there, the officers from San Bernardino raided the settlement early this week and confiscated 47 guns, revolvers and rifles. The Mexicans explained that they had the firearms for the ordinary protection of their homes.

Dr. H. G. Codling, dentist, is still doing the same guaranteed dentistry in the same old stand, any reports to the contrary are not true. 451f.

Mrs. J. F. Miller and Mrs. E. P. Chaffee attended the thirty-fifth session of the Southern California District convention of the Fraternal Aid Union in Los Angeles, March 17, as delegates. This was considered one of the best meetings held in recent years.

Mrs. Julia Lyon is spending about ten days at the home of Mrs. Bess O. Jones, in Los Angeles.

Stanley Hutton and Jaro Gale, who confessed to entering "The Pines," the beautiful mountain home of E. B. Van Horn of Los Angeles, near Camp Baldy, in San Antonio canyon, were held to answer to the superior court when given a preliminary hearing Tuesday before Judge George R. Crane. The entrance to the cottage was made about March 10th, and numerous articles were taken. Officer Sawyer made the arrests.

Members of the Elks located here enjoyed a delightful time at the lodge home in Pomona last night, the occasion being the annual home coming.

The dancing class of Miss Louise Green was organized last night, and on next Wednesday the class will meet again. Those desiring to join should communicate with Miss Green. The prices charged are 50c for one or 75c per couple.—Adv.451f.

The many friends of the C. F. Troeller family will be glad to know that they are planning on returning to Upland to reside, having sold their ranch in Brawley. They anticipate moving in June.

C. M. Sikes was a Los Angeles visitor Wednesday, the trip being made on business.

Gibler & Wilkinson, agents for the Oakland automobile, have just delivered a car to R. R. Brownson. In another column will be found an ad of the firm which explains the specifications of the Oakland Six.

Any person having clothing or donations of groceries, etc., if they will leave it at the home of Mrs. M. Cheney, or phone to 32-R, it will be greatly appreciated. There are many needy families in the community needing assistance and all donations will be made use of.

Mrs. Emma Walter and Mrs. Louisa Miller, sisters of Charles Ruedy, who have been visiting here and with friends at Los Angeles, have returned to Rush Hill, Nev., by way of San Francisco, where they will visit for a few days. Mrs. C. Marguth, an aunt to Mr. and Mrs. Ruedy, who came with them, will remain here.

That Upland News advertising gets results was proven in the sale of the Upland Pharmacy. In fact Mac, the Medicine Man, says that News advertising space has the pulling power of one of his porous plasters, for Saturday his store force had more business than could be handled satisfactorily, as many customers had to wait in order to be waited upon.

Watch the windows of Upland's bargain center for real bargains. Haur's old reliable variety store.—Adv.451f.

The first carload of automobiles to come to Upland is due to arrive here Monday or Tuesday of next week, when W. A. Lucas, the local dealer for Dodge Brothers' motor cars, will unload a car of these machines. Three of these motor cars have been sold and will be delivered to their owners on arrival. Those who have bought Dodge cars and are anxiously awaiting delivery of same, are Messrs. P. H. McQuillen, G. W. Eckerman and P. A. Demens. That the Dodge Brothers' motor car has become popular in Upland and vicinity as well as all over the United States, goes without saying, as may readily be observed by the number seen on our streets, and a further proof of which being the fact that four have been sold here in the short space of eight days. Mr. Lucas states that the waiting list is growing larger daily and that premiums are being offered for prompt delivery.

Attorney Chase of San Bernardino appeared for the Iowa State Bank and Attorney Swing appeared for Mr. Churchill.

Dr. H. G. Codling has just received new equipment for his dentist office, making it one of the most modern in this section. A Peerless Harvard chair, considered the best on the market, equipped with a sanitary, revolving bowl as well as a dentist's cabinet of mahogany are the principle features of the new equipment, while both the dry and wet sterilizers assure the patient of absolute cleanliness. As business has demanded considerable work being done in the evening Dr. Codling has a special electric lighting arrangement installed which enables him to work as efficiently at night as in the day time.

STATEMENT ONE HUNDRED PER CENT UNTRUE

If Cornelius Vanderbilt is a sincere advocate of national defense he could probably help the cause most by not talking. In his speech at St. Louis he made a ridiculous attack upon the secretary of the navy for depriving naval officers of "their constitutional right of speech," and said:

Just at this minute, when we need the counsel of navy officers to tell us also what ships and guns are required, these officers are forbidden to speak.

This statement is exactly 100 per cent untrue. Every day naval officers are telling the committees of the congress what, in their opinion, ought to be done to strengthen the navy. Every important officer of the navy has been heard. Every one of them has expressed his opinion freely and has been questioned at great length by members of the committees. There is not an aspect of naval development, there is not an element of weakness or strength in the navy that these men have not discussed. Their testimony is not only published in the newspapers, but it is printed officially by the United States government.—New York World.

COERCION

The Sacramento Union very properly denounces the manager of an office building in San Francisco for discharging an elevator operator because he had signed a "dry" petition. The manager in question was unusually frank in stating the actual reason for the discharge. "He is one of the best operators we ever had," said the manager, "in fact, I would give him a recommendation in an instant. But we could not keep a man who is fighting us."

In most cases where a man is discharged for his political views or acts, some other motive is trumped up as a subterfuge for public consumption. But in this case there was no evasion and the incident therefore presented a square issue. If citizens are to exercise ordinary privileges of citizenship, there must be a sentiment condemning utterly any attempt to use the authority of employers, the credit of bankers, or any other form of personal or business coercion to compel or restrict the political activity of an American citizen.

When this coercion goes so far as to intimidate or interfere with the voter in the exercise of his franchise, most states have laws against it. But it is difficult to extend these laws to cover all political activities. The best remedy in most cases is simply an educated public sentiment which will make the whole body of citizens ashamed of an individual citizen who undertakes to curtail the liberty of any other. If the community is ashamed of such acts, the individual is likely to be ashamed of such acts, the individual is likely to be ashamed to commit them.—Frederic Republican.

SIGNIFICANT TRUTHS

The average American does not seem to realize the significance of such truths as these:

1. Our native forests are rapidly diminishing.
2. As a consequence our streams are drying up in summer, flooding in winter.
3. The soil is being robbed of its fertility.
4. The number of our native birds has decreased 46 per cent in the last fifteen years.
5. Insects destroy annually in this country alone $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 worth of produce.
6. It is almost a question of "Save Our Birds," or "Lose Our Trees."—Bakersfield Echo.

IN TIME OF PEACE
PREPARE FOR WAR

In a recent speech before the House of Representatives, Mr. Meyer London, Socialist of New York, denounced the preparedness program of the present administration.

Mr. London takes the stand that the United States is not menaced by any foreign power, that the United States is not in danger of invasion and therefore we do not need to make any extensive preparations for future defense.

It may be of interest to state here, that in 1912 Prof. David Starr Jordan, the famous California educator and authority on international law, in a long article published in the Sunset magazine, proved very conclusively that international law treaties between nations and economic conditions had forever abolished war between nations.

It was an able article, written by one of the most distinguished men of modern times, perfect in its logic and reasoning.

How surprised and shocked the worthy professor and his followers must have been, when the present gigantic war broke out in Europe.

There were no surface indications of a world wide war at the time of the publication of Prof. Jordan's article, but now, four years later, the United States is in grave danger of being drawn into the war, which at present is affecting in a more or less degree the whole world.

Prof. Jordan's far seeing mind was badly mistaken in forecasting everlasting peace. It is just as logical to presume that four years hence, or sooner, Mr. London's prophecy will have proved false and I for one, and I think the majority of the people of the United States think likewise, that it is time for us, as a nation, to stop playing politics and mud throwing and make provision for an adequate defense.

Mr. London states that the country is hysterically crying for preparedness, but for the life of him he cannot see, who or what the country wants to be prepared against. But when we take out burglar insurance, or protect our homes against thieves, do we take such precautions against any particular thief, or against all thieves?

It seems to me the height of folly to rely on international law or to trust to the good will of a friendly Europe or a friendly Asia to preserve the integrity and peace of the United States, when it is common knowledge that the United States (Germany openly states that the U. S. is her worst enemy) has not a friend among all the great powers and that such statements as "We are too proud to fight, etc.," have made us the butt of jokes, sneers and insults of the whole world. Mr. London apparently thinks that preparedness is a new issue, a child born of the present war, but such is not the case.

Washington was our first advocate of preparedness, and he persistently warned the nation against the evils of unpreparedness and earnestly besought the nation, "In time of peace prepare for war." But time of peace prepare for war? In the time of the Revolution down to the present, we have, as a nation, stubbornly refused to listen to the counsel of such far seeing men as have had the courage of their convictions and have been warm advocates of preparedness. It is quite true, that we have suffered in the past for our carelessness, but have taken no heed of where it has been leading us.

It was listening to the counsel of such men as Mr. Bryan and Mr. London, who see the dove of peace in every bush, but who are not far sighted enough to see the war eagle farther in the back ground, waiting and ready to take his toll at the first favorable opportunity, that has blackened so many pages of American history.

It was unpreparedness that allowed the British to capture Washington and burn the Capitol in the year of 1812. The people then, as now, busy with squabbling for the almighty dollar and relying on the Atlantic ocean to protect them from invasion, took no heed until the British were at their very doors, then gathering up all the available militia and raw recruits that could be collected in a very short time, attempted to check the trained troops of England. It was just as true then as it is today, that raw levies cannot hold their own with trained men, and after losing a beggarly handful (10 or 11 killed and 8 or 9 wounded) the Americans retreated in disorder. The president and his official family had to take to the woods to escape capture, and so, because of unpreparedness was written one of the most shameful pages of American history.

Our Civil War was costly in blood and treasure because of unpreparedness. Had the federal government any thing like a decent standing army the war of the Rebellion would have never been fought. Hundreds of thousands of lives and millions of money would have been spared and the entire South would not have been set back a full fifty years in progress.

It was due, however, to the preparedness of the United States at the close of our Civil war that prevented a monarchy being established by the European Maximilian in Mexico, for at the close of the Civil war the United States had the most powerful army in the history of our country and was therefore able to enforce her demands that the Monroe doctrine be observed by all European powers. Quite a contrast between then and now. We cannot protect our border against Mexican outlaws (26 civilians and 16 soldiers being killed in the past three years on our own soil by the Mexican soldiers, and the number of American citizens, both men and women killed in Mexico will perhaps never be known. Peace at any price certainly sounds good to some people.)

Because we were unprepared our war with Spain was costly in men and money and the way the affair was handled did not bring any credit to the American people, but it was productive of one good result, for it brought home to the American people the fact that modern war cannot be carried on without adequate training and preparedness.

It showed the people that the mere enlisting and arming of a few hundreds of thousands of green, untrained men does not make an army in this period of complicated and scientific warfare.

But it seems that after every period of danger at the time being overcome, the majority of the people fall back in the old rut, without a thought for the future. "Never cross a bridge 'till you come to it," seems to be the motto, and every warning of "breakers ahead," most people turn a deaf ear. However, during the past few years there has always been a persistent under current running through the nation, making itself heard, wherever possible, in the cause of preparedness, and the nation wide cry now going up for preparedness is not a sudden, hysterical outburst as Mr. London thinks, out the culmination of his steady, persistent, demand now making itself heard.

It is not the people who are crying out for preparedness that are frightened and hysterical, for they see a serious condition confronting the United States and are preparing themselves to meet it.

It is the peace at any price class, the pacifists and the short haired women and the long haired men, who squeak, "I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier," or raise him for much of any thing else for that matter, who are shouting the loudest and crying "Wolf, wolf," for their own selfish and unpatriotic ends. Mr. London seems to be rather inconsistent in his argument for non-preparedness. To quote Mr. London, "It appears that German military strategy was right. The great armies of the allies have so far been unable to take back an inch of territory captured by the German armies during the first six weeks of the war." (If it was good strategy for the Germans to be prepared, why not for the United States too, Mr. London?) However, this is a cold, hard fact, one which we cannot very well get around, and furnishes interesting food for thought. If the combined forces of the allies cannot prevail against the Prussian military machine, what could the United States do in case of invasion in our present state of unpreparedness?

Major General Hugh L. Scott, in his hearing before the house committee on military affairs on January 6, last, testified that it had been carefully worked out by the general staff that Austria could land 72,000 men, fully equipped for the field in a first expedition and more than 100,000 in a second expedition; that Germany could land 387,000 men in a second expedition; that France could land 160,000 men at a first expedition and 243,000 men in a second expedition, and that it would only take an invading force ten or fifteen days to reach the United States.

So there the matter stands. We can either prepare ourselves to hold our own as a world power, or we can do as we did in 1812. We can assemble our raw militia and send them out to slaughter because we will not spend the money necessary to properly train them.

We can proclaim to the world that we value dollars more than lives of our citizens and our national honor; or we can back up our rights as a world power with such a show of force, as will make any nation, or group of nations, think twice before attacking us.

The millennium is not with us, and the day of universal disarmament is far in the future. As long as nations strive for commercial supremacy and for "a place in the sun" there will be war. And as long as the United States plays a man's sized part in world politics, she will have to be prepared to meet force with force. There is no standing still in the race of nations, we must be prepared to do our own best, or sooner or later we will be in the same position that poor old pacifist China is today.

EARL P. HATTON,
Pasco, Wash., March 9, 1916.

NEED ARMY OFFICERS

In all our talk about preparedness, and in the various schemes of army organization now before congress, little is said about the supply of officers for the proposed increase of our army force. It may or may not be an easy matter to increase our army to double or treble the present number, but how about the officers? These are not so easily trained or produced at short order as some people imagine. Yet the efficiency of an army depends altogether upon the sufficiency as well as the efficiency of its officers. The superiority of the German army as demonstrated in the present war is largely the result of the abundant supply and thorough training of its officers. An entire class of its population, the junkers, or landlord class, has for generations devoted itself exclusively to the art of war, monopolizing the superior ranks of the army. As a result, Germany has not only a sufficiency of officers to lead its own soldiers, but enough to spare to lead the armies of its allies, the Austro-Hungarians and the Turks. On the other hand, the failure of the British army to accomplish what was expected of it has been laid to the paucity of its officers.

The United States has no junker class, but it has a vast number of young men who have patriotic interest in their own country, and who, we believe, would like to have military training, and who would serve in the United States army if its plan of organization were made in accord with its national spirit.—Galveston News.

RALLY TO THE PRESIDENT

A positive public policy will command enthusiasm where a negative policy will be received with indifference. The president can count on the loyal support of New England, as the Boston correspondent of the Public Ledger said yesterday, in the firm stand he has taken for the national honor, and there is no reason to suppose that the rest of the country will be less prompt in its support. It is highly important that popular feeling everywhere should be made clear beyond the possibility of a doubt, and unless the American spirit is dead it will be. The politicians at Washington will not stick to a course that their constituents generally disapprove. The intrigues of Bernstorff and Bryan alike will prove futile if the nation speaks out. One man who knows his mind is a match for a multitude who take counsel of their fears and prejudices and turn their backs in the face of foreign threats.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It's awfully hard to marry the right girl for her money.

It may be said for prohibition that a bootlegger seldom reaches the ranks of the predatory rich.

A COMPARISON

There are nine cities in the United States having a population of between 300,000 and 500,000, thus placing them in the same class with the city of Los Angeles. These other cities are Buffalo, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Newark, New Orleans, Washington and Minneapolis.

The Los Angeles efficiency bureau has just issued a publication in which the cost of government here is compared with that of the other cities of the same class. The data is for the year 1913, which offers the latest comparative data available. The cost of government in all the other eight cities has been averaged, and the cost in Los Angeles compared with the average cost in the other eight cities. This statement provides interesting reading, inasmuch as it shows for what purposes the money raised through taxation is expended.

In this comparison the outstanding fact is that only for three classifications of service does the city of Los Angeles expend more money than the average amount expended in the other eight cities. In all other particulars do the other cities expend more money than Los Angeles. Los Angeles expends about 65 per cent more than the average city of its size on schools and library; about 35 per cent more for interest on city indebtedness, and about 15 per cent more for the maintenance and repairs of streets.

Los Angeles expends about one-sixth as much as the average city of its class for charities, hospitals, and corrections; for pensions, stores and general expense about one-eleventh.

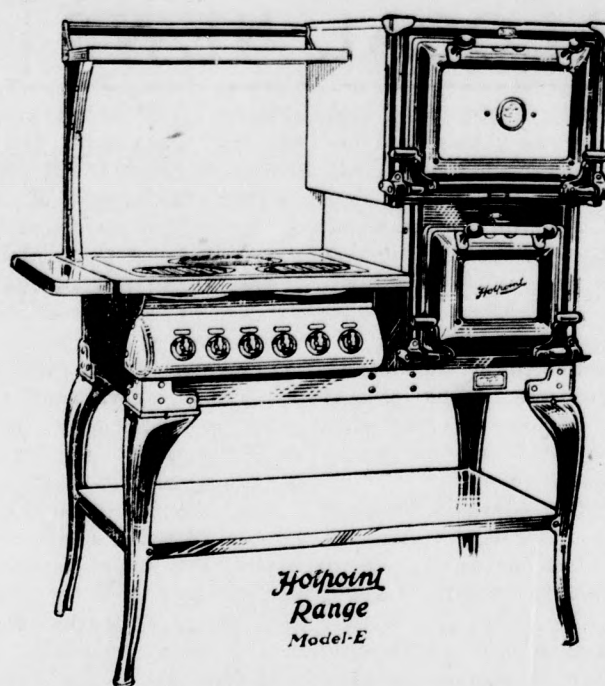

For parks and playgrounds Los Angeles expended $176,621 against an average of $272,950 in other cities. For public service enterprises, which here includes harbor, as well as water and power, we pay about 2 per cent less than the average. For health work, garbage collection and street cleaning Los Angeles pays about 35 per cent less than the average city.

The cost of maintaining the general government in Los Angeles is about 18 per cent less than the average. For protecting persons and property, which includes the police and fire departments, building inspection, etc., Los Angeles expends about 22 per cent less than the average city. One item which is not included in the table because the money is not handled through the city treasury is the cost of public improvements paid for through special assessments. This item in Los Angeles is considerably larger than in the other cities of similar size.—Los Angeles Express.

WHAT LABOR MEANS

Labor is at once a burden, a chastisement, an honor and a pleasure. It may be identified with poverty, but there is also glory in it. It bears witness, at the same time, to our natural wants and to our manifold needs. What were man, what were life, what were civilization without labor? All that is great in man comes of labor—greatness in art, in literature, in science. Knowledge—the wing wherewith we fly to heaven—is only acquired through labor. Genius is but a capability of laboring intensely; it is the power of making great and sustained efforts. Labor may be a chastisement, but it is indeed a glorious one. It is worship, duty, praise and immortality—for those who labor with the highest aims and for the purest purpose.

There are many who murmur and complain at the law of labor under which we live, without reflecting that obedience to it is not only in conformity with the Divine will, but also necessary for the development of intelligence, and for the thorough enjoyment of our common nature. Of all wretched men, surely the idle are the most so—those whose life is barren of utility, who have nothing to do except to gratify their senses. Are not such men the most querulous, miserable and dissatisfied of all, constantly in a state of ennui, alike useless to themselves and to others—mere cumberers of the earth, who, when removed, are missed by none, and whom none regret? Most wretched and ignoble lot indeed, is the lot of the idlers.—Samuel Smiles.

UNCLE SAM AS GUARDIAN

The island of Santa Domingo has long been a source of uneasiness to the United States. The Dominican republic on the eastern side of Haiti, its western neighbor, contracted debts that it could not or would not pay and was sadly addicted to political turbulence. Like Haiti, too, its foreign creditors were threatening to foreclose. So a few years ago it accepted the good offices of the United States, and since that time it has been doing fairly well. At least, it is paying off its debts and keeping well within its annual income. Now that this country has taken charge in Haiti also, it is not doubted that equally good results will follow. Of course the United States is not actuated solely by benevolence in thus bringing order out of chaos in these two republics. Each was a standing invitation to violate the Monroe doctrine. Ordinary prudence suggested that the menace thus offered should be removed.—San Diego Union.

Announcement that four great munitions plants have been working to capacity on government orders for two or three weeks, indicates that the administration is moving for preparedness without waiting for congress to act.

Also, now is the season when mother persists in diagnosing a case of unrequited love as spring fever, and administering to it accordingly.

that we have not yet had in America, one man of large means with the vision to make for himself an undying position as a patron of literature and art in a large way."

How many American authors would return to the old days when talent bowed its head to soon forgotten lordlings for cast-off raiment and the broken meats of the second table? In the Roman republic, just turning to empire, was Horace, more a poet or less a man for hailing with cradest flattery a sybaritic imperial favorite as "sprung from royal ancestors?" Has our own republic need of such patrons?

Some literary art does not pay. Why not accept the fact, as many masters of English letters have done, and earn by daily toil the right to literary leisure? Was Matthew Arnold the worse for his school work, or Trollope for serving the postoffice?

Are American authors who work as editors, like Mr. Johnson himself, as publishers' readers or schoolmasters; in the professions or in business, really whining for private pensions?

The unfortunate writer who ended her life last week did so because of ill health. No Maecenas can guard against disease or wounds, old age or failing faculties. Writers cannot be immunized to the accidents of humanity. They have less excuse to lay their future upon the broad shoulders of some rich man with a taste for adulation than has the clergyman, teacher or faithful family physician.—New York World.

close is being thought over by the business men of the city and it is expected that all San Bernardino will show its appreciation of the students holding such an event by closing for two hours in the afternoon.

Cook, who was the star of last Saturday's meet, is expected to shine again today in the sprints and again make the locals feel that he is good for 15 points in the big meet.

The fans will have the pleasure of occupying for the first time the large new bleachers which will seat something like 1200 people. The bleachers were built by the students of the manual training classes and are fine for the fans. This number of stands will be increased about 750 more by the citrus belt meet, as the school board decided to vote the necessary funds to build such a number.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Lyle Colborn; Social Meetings, Mrs. Anna Teague; Music, Mrs. Sadie Mehl; Hospital, Mrs. Nannie Atwood and Mrs. Mabel Handley.

Mrs. Pearl Jenkins favored us with a solo "My California Home," which was enjoyed by all. The President then spoke of the members wearing the white ribbon during the campaign, and especially at our meetings or be fined five cents. Let us all join in the work this year with enthusiasm for the victory depends on each one of us.

The number of people in a parade is always overestimated. Same with a dogfight—two dogs making enough noise for four.—Toledo Blade.

Cucamonga

One of the most delightful parties of the season was given Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bridge, of Alta Loma, in honor of St. Patrick's birthday. The house was artistically decorated with festoons of green shamrocks and masses of white and green in various parts of the house. The entertainment of the evening consisted of games of various sorts. A potato race was indulged in, after which the losers (the gentlemen) entertained the ladies with original Irish stunts. Mr. B. N. Howarth and Miss Krysto won the prize for being able to dress for a wedding journey, take the journey and repack their valise in the shortest time. The prize was a miniature trunk, inside of which were two green lollypops. Mrs. Bridge served delicious refreshments, which in every respect carried out the color scheme for the evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Atwood of Upland, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beckley, Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Howarth, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jackett, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lucas, Mr. Warner, Miss Krysto, Mark Krysto, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kincaid, and Karl Powellson.

Cucamonga seems to be more than fortunate. Many people seem to be moving away.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Haddock and family left Monday for Glendale, where they will reside. We hope they will get back to Cucamonga occasionally to visit their many friends here.

Dr. Sophia L. Gault of Los Angeles spent the week end at the W. A. Lucas home.

Miss Sue Van Wagenen spent the week end at her home here.

R. E. Gilbert is laid up with a foot in a very serious condition. Mr. Gilbert ran a nail into his foot and has been threatened with blood poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Horst entertained Mr. and Mrs. Brooks at dinner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks left Thursday night for San Mateo, where they will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Ward.

The new schoolhouse at North Cucamonga is nearly completed, and they expect to hold school there before long.

The friends of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Frazer are grieved to hear of the death of their baby, from an attack of acute pneumonia. The baby was taken ill Sunday morning and died Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Karl Rassau and family have moved to Pomona, where Mr. Rassau will have a position as accountant. Their Cucamonga friends dislike to have them go away, but are glad they are going no farther than Pomona.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Herbert were in Los Angeles a couple of times this week.

The Alhwa Card club was delightfully entertained Friday night by Mrs. C. F. Thorpe. The house was decorated in green and the same color scheme was carried out in the refreshments.

Mr. T. B. Gilbert will move this week into the house just vacated by Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Ward.

Mrs. J. A. Merrill of Riverside, with Loma McLean, Hobart Gonzales and Mr. and Mrs. Holmes motored to Cucamonga Saturday to spend the afternoon with Mrs. G. S. Van Wagenen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Thorpe, Mrs. George Thorpe and son Keely, Charles Thorpe and Miss Mida Thompson motored to Los Angeles Wednesday.

Mr. J. B. Lofourcade went to Los Angeles Monday to spend a couple of days on business.

Mrs. Reid and Miss Gertrude Reid, of Alta Loma, attended a lecture in Claremont Saturday.

The Cayote Patrol, of the Boy Scouts, has decided to give up their patrol and join the Y. M. C. A. Some time this week they expect to have a meeting and with the assistance of Mr. Maxwell, in a body join the Y. M. C. A.

GENERAL CLEAN UP TIME WILL SOON BE HERE

The people are the only ones who can make a spotless town. If every man would appoint himself a committee of one, with one object in view, and that to take care of his own property, by that we mean the alley back of his house and the street in front, and keep them free from all waste materials, it would not take long to change the appearance of the community.

The results would be so great that even the most sanguine would scarcely believe it. We should act on the following rule:

Make your home attractive. Keep it clean. Keep it in repair. Keep it healthful. Keep it livable.

They are simple. A little done each day will make you happier, healthier and more content.

Young man, don't forget to ask her if she can support you in the style and luxury to which you have been accustomed.

Etiwanda

The P. T. A. Association met on Wednesday last week at the school house. The sixth and seventh and eighth grades were asked to remain and they gave a short program of songs preceding the lecture.

Prof. Merton E. Hill of Chaffey Union gave an address on the benefits of going on in education. He complimented the work of the Etiwanda group in Chaffey Union and paid a high tribute to Miss Katherine Jones' work as a teacher. Mrs. Werner and Mrs. Donnelly served punch and wafers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott of Rialto were here for Sunday guests at the J. H. Scott home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Rader entertained Mr. E. G. Rader and the Misses Rader at dinner on Sunday.

Mr. Spray and Miss Elma Spray and Mrs. Maugham motored to Los Angeles for a two days' trip on Tuesday.

Mrs. R. G. Hall came out from Los Angeles on Wednesday to spend the week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Spray. Mr. Hall came out for the week-end and the whole party motored to Ubita Springs on Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Rubin, Miss Estelle Rubin and Miss McIlvain of Portland, Oregon motored out from San Bernardino on Friday evening to attend the Music Class Vaudeville.

The Moving Picture Company gave an evening of educational films last Thursday. Yosemite and the big trees being among the good things appearing on the screen.

Mr. Tilden and Mr. E. G. Rader spent Thursday in Ontario attending G. A. R. Post.

Mrs. McDowell has been spending the week with her sister Mrs. Greenlee.

Rev. Wycoff of San Francisco visited Etiwanda in the interest of the church building society on Sunday. He occupied the pulpit on Sunday morning and gave a splendid address on the work of the church extension society.

The Men's Fellowship dinner given at the church on Tuesday evening was attended by about 50 of the men of the colony. The dinner which was served by the Ladies' Aid Society was delicious and the men paid the cooks the high compliment of "eating the menu from start to finish."

Mr. Roscoe Goodcell of San Bernardino was the speaker of the evening giving an address on "The Men's Part." Rev. Greenlee presided at the dinner and short toasts were given by Mr. L. E. Maxwell and Mr. Page of San Bernardino.

While the men were dining the ladies assembled at the parsonage for a picnic supper. At eight o'clock every one adjourned to the church and listened to an address on China by Mr. Goodcell.

Miss Rae of Cucamonga was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholow on Sunday.

Mr. R. G. Dazier of Hollywood spent Sunday with the A. C. Smiths.

Rev. Greenlee was a Los Angeles visitor on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Miss Widney chaperoned a group of girls on a tramp to East Canyon on Sunday. About sixteen made the trip walking both ways. A picnic dinner at the camping ground was an enjoyable part of the trip.

A large audience witnessed the music class burlesque at Cypress Hall on Friday evening and the committee and the entertainers were showered with compliments over the success of the affair.

Part I was the burlesque "graduation" exercises of the singin' skule. A roar of merriment greeted the appearance of the class as they marched in for they were clad in a motley array of caps and gowns. Dust caps, boudoir caps, automobile caps, a dunce cap, a mortar board and several varieties of tams adorned their heads, while boaster overcoats, bath robes, bungalow aprons, steamer rugs and kimono served as "gowns."

The songs were well known college songs with words adapted to the occasion. The young men's quartette gave that well known classic, "A Speckled Frog Sat on a Log" and the tall tenor was heard in a "pome" of greeting. A huge bouquet tied with green tulle was passed up over the footlights and mottoes on the wall added to the Commencement Day illusion. Judge Donnelly sang "A Little Bit of Heaven and they Call it Ireland" and responded to an encore with "Philadelphia" and following him Messrs Frost and Donnelly appeared in a mirth-provoking sketch, "Is He Ln?"

"Ma" Sweet and her eight charming daughters concluded the program.

The cast was as follows: Ma Sweet.....Mrs. Jack Scott Betsy Belindy.....Harriet Rader Caroline Cordella.....Camille Schieff Cynthia Cecely.....Luella McClean Dorothy Della.....Elma Spray Elizabeth Eliza.....Mercedes Schieff Frances Fedora.....Marie Kemp Gioriana Gadabout.....Athella Johnston

Mrs. Scott as "Ma Sweet" perhaps carried off the honors, and every daughter did her part charmingly. It was the opinion of the audience that a sight of the costuming in this act was alone worth the price of admission.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

Everyone who rides in it recognizes the performance of the car as distinctive and unusual.

It is the quality revealed in this performance which makes the price impressive. People are attracted by something more than price or they would not wait for deliveries as thousands have waited.

The production is large, but it is still inadequate to supply the demand of those who want this particular car at this particular price.

A car load is due to arrive in Upland Monday of next week. Out of this car there remains unsold, only one touring car and one roadster.

I would be pleased to have you call and inspect these new Dodge Brothers' Motor Cars as they are unloaded or they can be seen at the Tenth Street Garage.

I have read somewhere that General Sherman said, "War is Hell." Then again I have heard it remarked that it was "Hell to be poor." And the Great Good Book teaches there is a place of torment designated as Hell, that remaineth there the wicked. It is evident that the little word thus applied means "torment" or "anguish," and its a forgone conclusion that in any event it is necessary to avoid. There is a word—"Preparedness"—that if taken as a daily motto or banner, or if you please, write it in your hat, so that it becomes part of your nature, will be the great shield of defense. Preparedness against war that will conserve life and property and the young blood and sinew of the country, that dissipates strife, enmity and anguish. Likewise against poverty, by home-making. Get back to the land. "A little wife well willed," "A little farm well tilled," are great riches. As to the other, consult your minister. There has been great preparedness this week in fire insurance. I have written thirty thousand dollars in policies. When there are rumors of war conserve your interests.

I have one share of San Antonio Water Co. stock for sale—cheap. Some real bargains in small acreage and a few cheap houses and lots. Times are changing fast. Come in and let's see what "Preparedness" you need.

Very truly,

M. F. Palmer
